

Francesco Bellusci

Born in 1966 in center Italy and grown up with a strong passion for the sea in all its broad aspects. In 1984 achieved an high school diploma in Humanistic Sciences and in 1992 graduated "cum laude" in Naval Architecture and Marine Engineer at Napoli Polytechnic. Francesco Bellusci joined Scorpio Ship Management in 1994 as Superintendent, after having served the Italian Navy on board an oil recovery vessel. His duties at Scorpio over the years have included covering all responsibilities in ship management, such as maintenance, repair, new building, crewing and quality assurance.

Mr. Bellusci was Technical Director from 1995, DPA from 1997 and was appointed General Manager in 2008 and Managing Director in 2010.

A high level of competence, strong motivation and an innate passion for the sea have guided his career development within Scorpio, a company with a solid base that allows him daily to carry out his responsibilities ethically and effectively, safeguarding the environment and contributing to the development of a better world.

Recent public listing and fund raising of Scorpio would not have happened without a solid industrial plan where the vision of Francesco on ship efficiency was instrumental.
